Consultants linked to EU contractors

Many security advisory group members are closely linked to companies and institutions that win EU-funded security projects.

Sources: Investigate Europe/PUBLICO, EU Research and Innovation Commission; Border Wars by Mark Akkerman

Anne Sjölinder
Was the company’s representative on the second FP7 SAG

Anna Milne
Was the company’s representative on the first FP7 Security Advisory Group

Cristina Leone
Has wrapped up her role at Leonardo/Finmeccanica in February 2015.

Jean-Marc Suchier
Was the company’s representative on both FP7 SAG

Christopher Cullinane
Was the company’s representative on both FP7 SAG

Robert Sleigh
Has acted as Professor of Cybersecurity at Birmingham City University. BT is a multinational company headquartered in London, UK, that provides telecommunication services and operates in 180 countries. BT has won a contract under one H2020-EU.3.7 (Secure Societies) project. The University of Salford also won a contract under the same programme.

Jean-Luc Zolesio
Was the company’s representative on the first FP7 SAG

Ingrid van Rijssel
Was the company’s representative on the second FP7 SAG

Merle Missoweit
Acted as Chief Security Researcher at BT and Professor of Cybersecurity at Birmingham City University. BT is a multinational company headquartered in London, UK, that provides telecommunication services and operates in 180 countries. BT has won a contract under one H2020-EU.3.7 (Secure Societies) project. The University of Salford also won a contract under the same programme.

Bertrand de Cordoue
Represented UK’s Home Office government department and Robert Gordon University, as well as the second FP7 SAG membership. He has also worked for Thales from 1995 and 2002.

Peter Dowd
Was appointed to the role of Leardons’ Telcommunications in February 2005.

Michael Tsinisizelis
Acted as Dean at University of Athens. The institution has won a contract under one H2020-EU.3.7 (Secure Societies) project. The University of Athens won contracts under seven FP7 security projects.

Hans-Martin Pastuszka
Was the company’s representative on the second FP7 SAG. The University won contracts under three FP7-Security projects.

Jean-Luc Zolesio
Acted as Professor of Digital Economy. The institution has won a contract under two H2020-EU.3.7 projects.

Jean-Marie Sciarra
Was the company’s representative on the first FP7 SAG. The Israel Institute of Technology won contracts under seven FP7 security projects.

Claudia Gärtner
Was the company’s representative on the second FP7 SAG. The Israel Institute of Technology won contracts under seven FP7 security projects.

Ada Ogilvie-Smith
Was the company’s representative on both FP7 SAG

Jean-Marc Suchier
Was the company’s representative on both FP7 SAG

Jean-Luc Zolesio
Was the company’s representative on both FP7 SAG

Bailly Hedy
Was the company’s representative on the second FP7 SAG

Pier-Alain Fonteyne
Acted as R&T Management’ at Oxford. Oxford is a collegiate university won contracts under three H2020-EU.3.7 (Secure Societies) projects. The connections between members of the advisory committee and potential contractors suggest a strong industry influence illustrated advisory committees were either not filed, or made potential conflict of interest declarations were either not filed, or made.